Marine Veteran and Former IMSA Racer Liam Dwyer Hosts Kart Race to Build Homes for Wounded Veterans

Pros and amateurs share karts over 90 minutes at Trackhouse Motorplex on Nov. 11, with proceeds going to Homes For Our Troops.

MOORESVILLE, N.C. — Homes For Our Troops built Liam Dwyer's specially adapted home. On Veterans Day, he is putting on a kart race to help build the next one. Dwyer — the Marine staff sergeant who won the Continental Tire SportsCar Challenge ST race at Lime Rock in 2014, three years after an IED in Afghanistan took his left leg — last put on a race like it roughly a decade ago.

"The home I received did far more than give me a place to live — it gave me back my freedom and my independence," said Dwyer, founder of the Karts for Courage Pro-Am. "Every lap we run on Nov. 11 helps do that for another veteran."

The Race

Practice and qualifying sessions lead into a 90-minute endurance race on Trackhouse Motorplex's 0.7-mile, 11-turn outdoor circuit. Teams enter for $1,000; individual entries are $250 and are placed onto teams. Professional drivers joining the field will be announced in the coming weeks.

How to Take Part

Entries and sponsorship information are at kartsforcourage.org; every sponsorship is a tax-deductible donation to Homes For Our Troops. Drivers, sponsors and media: info@kartsforcourage.org.
